The Race, Ethnicity, and Place Conference (REP) fosters dialogue on a range of issues related to the racial and ethnic transformations of places. It encourages interdisciplinary perspectives, philosophical and methodological diversity, and professional and student perspectives on such issues. The Conference is committed to providing high quality programs and being open to broad participation by academics, practitioners, and students.

Previous Race, Ethnicity, and Place Conferences took place at:
1 Binghamton University (2002)
2 Howard University (2004)
3 Texas State University-San Marcos (2006)

Traveling to the Other Campuses of the University of Miami:

Public Transit: Board Metromover outside the hotel and go to the Government Center Station. Transfer to Metrorail South to University Station for the Coral Gables Campus or to Metrorail North to the Civic Center Station for the Medical School Campus.

Car: For the Coral Gables Campus: Take I-95 South to US 1 South about 8 miles. Coral Gables Campus is on the right.

Car: For the Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences: take Brickell (US 1) south to the Rickenbacker Causeway to Key Biscayne. Campus is on the right after the Seaquarium.

Field Trip: Ethnic Neighborhoods in Miami

Field Trip Leader: Thomas D. Boswell, University of Miami
Starts and returns to the James L. Knight Center

This 4-hour field trip by bus goes through some of Metropolitan Miami's better-known ethnic neighborhoods. The trip starts with a short tour of downtown Miami and describes how it has become a shopping center, mainly for people visiting from the Caribbean and South America. It continues northward through Overtown, a once-thriving Black neighborhood that has been reduced to the poorest neighborhood in Metropolitan Miami. The next stop is Miami's Garment District, formally the third largest in the U.S. This industry has been almost entirely dependent upon an immigrant labor force since its inception during the 1960s. Next, we travel north through Wynwood, once known as Miami's Puerto Rican neighborhood. Puerto Ricans now represent the fourth largest Hispanic nationality in Miami, after Cubans, Nicaraguans, and Colombians.

Little Haiti is the next stop. There are 116,000 Haitians living in Metropolitan Miami, second only to Cubans in number of foreign born. We will discuss why Haitians chose to settle in Miami, beginning in the 1970s, and why Miami is now replacing New York City as the primary recipient of current Haitian immigrants, although there are still more Haitians living in the New York Metropolitan Area. The next stop is Miami's Liberty City, primary site of the 1980 Black riots and now a mixed area that is transitioning into a Hispanic neighborhood along its western and southern boundaries with Hialeah and Allapattah, respectively. We finish our journey with a quick trip down Miami's Calle Ocho, through the heart of Miami's famed Little Havana.

Stay on Time, Please!

If someone takes more than her/his share of the allocated time for a session, then someone else in the session receives less time, which obviously is unfair. Therefore, the single most important function of a session chair is to make sure each participant is aware of the serious time limitation. The chair must enforce this time limit. Participants are aware of the allotted time and are professionals. So, this should not be a serious issue.

In REP IV, each presenter is allowed a maximum of 20 minutes of presentation time, although in a few sessions, only 15 minutes are allocated. There will be three color-coded cards to control the presenters presentation time: a 5-minute warning, a two-minute warning, and a “STOP” now you are out of time.

Chairs should meet with the session presenters a few minutes prior to the start of each session and inform them of the rules and the time cards. Chairs should let presenters know that the time constraints will be strictly enforced in fairness to all presenters.

If someone cancels, or is a no-show, you must allocate that time for questions and discussion of the presentations, rather than reallocating the time to other presenters. Note that there is a time next to each paper. Audience members will go from one session to another and will expect particular papers to be presented at those times.

If the first paper does not show, then one could have the last presenter go first and then go last again and re-present. If the second paper does not show, then one can give more time to the first presenter and allow much more time for questions, but the third paper MUST NOT start early.
Join the Ethnic Geography Specialty Group of the Association of American Geographers

What is the Ethnic Geography Specialty Group?
The Ethnic Geography Specialty Group (EGSG) of the Association of American Geographers (AAG) is comprised of faculty, students, and other professionals who share diverse interests in research, involving ethnicity in past and present contexts. The EGSG promotes the common interests of persons working in ethnic geography, provides a forum for the exchange of ideas within the AAG, and encourages members in their research and teaching of ethnic experiences from comparative, national/transnational, and global perspectives.

Join us on the cutting edge of geography
EGSG members are actively engaged in producing policy-relevant studies and working both domestically and in collaboration with international scholars to advance the field of ethnic geography in such topics as race/racial relations, white ethnicity/whiteness studies, international comparisons on immigration, and others.

Benefits of joining the EGSG
Being a member of the EGSG provides opportunities to network with professionals and students with similar interests and to share your work with others in professional meetings and at conferences. Professional meetings are useful in many other ways too, including networking opportunities related to employment. Annual fees for AAG members are $5 per year; student fees are only $3 per year.

Join us at our regular meetings
The EGSG encourages professionals and students to present research at our meetings, which provide excellent opportunities to meet others and to share research with geographers and other social scientists from across the globe. To learn more about presenting your research in an EGSG-sponsored session at the conference, see the EGSG website http://www.unl.edu/geography/ethnic. (Website hosted by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Anthropology and Geography.)

• 105th Annual Meeting of the AAG, March 22-27, 2009 in Las Vegas, Nevada

Student Research Paper and Proposal Competitions
Undergraduate and graduate students are invited to participate in EGSG Student Paper Competitions and Dissertation Proposal Competitions at annual AAG Meetings. Winners in each competition will receive a $250 prize, a certificate, a ticket to the AAG awards banquet, and formal recognition at the banquet and in the AAG newsletter. See the EGSG website for paper requirements and deadlines.

Metromover is free!!
Non-Smoking Policy
The Race, Ethnicity, and Place Conference maintains a nonsmoking policy in all meeting rooms.

Accessibility
In support of the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Race, Ethnicity, and Place Conference and its contracted hotel's management make reasonable accommodations to the extent possible when they are requested. Individuals requiring such accommodations are asked to make their needs known to the Local Arrangements Committee as early as possible so every effort can be made to provide the requested accommodations.

Professional Conduct
Professional ideas and information are exchanged most effectively at the Race, Ethnicity and Place Conference in an atmosphere free of abuse or harassment and characterized by courtesy and respect. To that end, the Conference expects all individuals who attend to conduct themselves in a manner that establishes an atmosphere free from discriminatory practices and harassment.

Reminder to Speakers
If using a digital projector, please bring your file to the room at least ten minutes prior to the beginning of your session. Someone should be there to help you upload your presentation. Remember to keep your presentation to the allotted time (approximately 15 minutes) and promptly obey the chairperson's time cues.

Speaker’s Preparation Room and Press Room
The President Room is available for both Speaker Preparation and for the use of the Press for interviews throughout the time of the Conference.
